About us

We are The Ennrons a semi-acoustic rock duo from Haarlem, comprised of one of the natives and an exiled Scottish-Irish Brit. We write and play our own songs with an occasional self-made' cover thrown in for good measure. Our music covers a wide range of styles: from melodious singer-songwriter compositions with two-part vocal harmony to rocking crowd-pleasers. The common denominator of all our songs is 'easy to listen to, but hard to forget'.

Our style is intimate, soulful and yet still passionate. We're at home on all stages, from front room to ball room, playing acoustic guitars and harmonica with (appropriate) amplification.

With his British roots, Bernard comes of course from the Mecca of pop music. He has travelled around Europe as a street musician and even sought his luck in a band in the United States.

Ronald has played everything from hard guitar-rock to weddings and party music.

The two have now found each other with two semi-acoustic guitars, duo vocals and harmonica. The Ennrons are not afraid to deal with the larger themes of life in their texts: love, the meaning of life, friendship, truth and lies and, of course, the love of music itself.
